WHO AM I?

I am Victorio Paskevicius, I am 16 years old, and I am a student at the PRoA school of Argentina, an institution dedicated to learning programming and computer science.
I am a soccer player at my neighborhood club, I have training four times a week, and I enjoy do exercise and staying in good physical shape.

FORMATION

school:

I am a student at the PRoA school in Río III, and I am currently in the fourth year, specializing in web design and development. In addition to my school studies, I take self-paced courses in programming, specifically Front-End web development.

Sports:

In my life, I have practiced and learned various sports at a competitive level, like tennis, karate, and others at a casual level, like swimming. Additionally, as a hobby, I like play paddle and football 5 with my friends and my team. I complemented these activities with gym or calisthenics. But, I consider my greatest achievement to be in football, as it is where I have developed at level physically and mentally. I have learned the importance of discipline, hard work, and individual as well as team exercise.

EXPERIENCE

Not experience working:

Even though I don't have work experience, I can learn quickly, and I believe I can contribute in many other ways. Additionally, I can adapt and adjust quickly to change or different environments.
